

And Finally..... As Seen Around Mexico

And They Aren't Crazy About Him Either

Another way to travel -- luggage-class!

On our first day of the tour, after visiting Teotihuacan, we have lunch at the home of this wonderful family. They own a cactus farm and make many products from its leaves and flowers including liquor. In addition, the father has a obsidian workshop and fashions beautiful pendants, earrings and replicas. Of course we all buy something, not only for its beauty, but also as it is a thrill to buy directly from the artisan.

Mexico has the most laid-back dogs in the world. They are everywhere and not once did one bark at me or make me feel threatened. Mostly they like to snooze.

This museum is a must-see and a highlight in Merida. I spent two hours here.

The 13 of us luxuriated in our 55 passenger bus. I loved sitting in the back and this was my view.

I was asked to say a few words in Spanish in tribute to Carlos, our wonderful driver, along with his tip.

And wonderful Victor, our guide who took good care of us 13 people and made sure we had a good time and were always well fed. He made every day a joy.
